Subject: You are dropping like flies

The Phillies have a serious mountain to climb now, they cannot lose another game and tonight they play again on home soil, which contrary to popular belief, is proving to be a disadvantage for them. With the Yankees ahead 3 games to 1, the Phillies can only win the series if it goes to 7 games, consequently a lot of you gamers out there have been well and truly swatted from the scoreboard, those highlighted in red will have to wait for the Grey Cup to earn their campus wide notoriety.

Could it end tonight with the Yankees winning in 5? They will certainly be going all out for an early kill, but should they push too hard and cause the ball joint in the pitchers' elbow to cease, they would be on a slippery slope themselves.

Just a final thought. Do you think that their airplane is equipped with a small spittoon on the back of every seat?
